

The excerpt below is taken from Air Force Instruction (AFI), 36-6001, Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Program, paragraphs 2.13.5.1.-2.13.5.3.4, identifies the Air Force process of creating, maintaining, and protecting installation-level reports of sexual assault:

2.13.5.1. SARC records will consist of information recorded for victim support and care, program operating and functioning, training, and other completed forms or notes required for daily activities. Records may be either electronic or paper. Ensure electronic storage is password protected if on a shared drive.

2.13.5.2. All SARC/VA records may be subject to review in legal proceedings.

2.13.5.3. Victim care records may consist of restricted or unrestricted reports.

2.13.5.3.1. Case files will be prepared and maintained for restricted and unrestricted reports based on victim's reporting selection, provided the report is not covered under exceptions listed in this Instruction.

2.13.5.3.2. All restricted reports will be assigned a Restricted Report Control Number (RRCN). The RRCN will be developed using a two-digit year, two-digit month, the first four letters of the installation name, a three-digit numerical sequence, and followed by the letter —R . For example, —0709RAND001R represents the incident occurred in 2007, during September, at Randolph AFB, is the first report of this sequence, and is a restricted report.

2.13.5.3.3. Restricted and unrestricted reports will be kept in a locked file cabinet when not in use. Restricted reports will only be available to SARCs, Alternate SARCs, VAs, or Healthcare Personnel trained in handling restricted reports and need access to the information to provide and manage services to a victim. Unrestricted reports will only be available to appropriate individuals with an official need to know. Those who have an official need to know in the Air Force routinely include law enforcement, the commanders and first sergeants of the victim and the alleged assailant, legal personnel, the SARC, the VA, and Healthcare Personnel as required to perform their respective duties.

2.13.5.3.4. When receiving transferred cases from other installations, SARCs will create and maintain an appropriate record based on the type of report. For restricted reports, add a —T to the end of the RRCN and ensure transferred cases are not counted as new cases.

The excerpt below is taken from Air Force Instruction (AFI), 36-6001, Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Program, Attachment 2 “COMMANDER’S CHECKLIST FOR UNRESTRICTED REPORTS OF SEXUAL ASSAULT”, commanders are responsible for ensuring victims are kept updated on their case as it proceeds, while in constant interaction and support from the Sexual Assault Response Coordinator (SARC):

() Ensure the victim receives monthly reports regarding the status of the sexual assault investigation from the date the investigation was initiated until there is a final disposition of the case.

The excerpt below is taken from Air Force Instruction (AFI), 36-6001, Sexual Assault Prevention and Response Program, Attachment 5, “VICTIM ADVOCATE SEXUAL ASSAULT RESPONSE PROTOCOLS CHECKLIST”, victim advocates provide a copy to the victim at the time the report is initiated (both unrestricted and restricted reports of sexual) and remains available to provide documentation and other support throughout the case process:

() Review the DD Form 2910 if the victim is eligible to elect the restricted reporting option and it has been determined that none of the exceptions are applicable:

() Ensure the victim acknowledges his or her understanding of the explanation of each item by initialing on the space provided by each item.

() Ensure the victim indicates the reporting option that he or she elects by initialing in the space which corresponds to his or her selection. Remind the victim that failing to elect a reporting option and initial and sign the VRPS shall automatically result in an unrestricted report and notifications to the command and appropriate military criminal investigative organization.

() If the victim elects the “restricted reporting option,” reiterate the availability of the option to change to “unrestricted reporting” at any time which will result in the notification of command and law enforcement for possible initiation of an investigation.

() Ensure signature and date by the VA and the victim in the designated spaces.

() Provide a copy to the victim for his or her personal safekeeping and give the original to the SARC as soon as practicable.

() Offer information as appropriate regarding local resources for immediate safety and long-term protection and support, workplace safety, housing, childcare, legal services, clinical resources, medical services, chaplain resources, transitional compensation, and other military and civilian support services.

Case files are maintained at the originating SARC office; if the victim is reassigned to another installation and desires for the case file to be transferred, the losing base SARC contacts the gaining base SARC to ensure effective transfer of pertinent records.

The excerpts below are taken from Air Force annual report submissions to DoD, and subsequently, part of the comprehensive DoD submission to Congress for reports of sexual assaults received by military services.

Pursuant to Public Law 108-375, §577, FY10 numbers are currently in the process of review and validation for submission on behalf of the Secretary of the Air Force to the DoD on or before 15 January 2011; in turn, DoD will submit to Congress on or before 15 March 2011, at which time will be available to the public.

5) The number of military-related incidents of SH, EO, DV, and/or MST reported by servicemembers in FY2006, FY 2007, FY 2008, FY 2009, and/or FY2010.

Data on number of military-related incidents of MST reported by servicemembers in FY2006, FY 2007, FY 2008, FY 2009, and/or FY2010 is derived from AF reports to the Department of Defense on sexual assaults.

AMJAMS (Automated Military Justice Analysis and Management System) is the military justice data base for the Air Force. It collects information on military justice actions (Nonjudicial punishment under Article 15, UCMJ, and courts-martial). It is an accused-centric system and victim data is not presently collected.

A violation of Article 93, Cruelty and Maltreatment, is the most common method of charging sexual harassment where a superior-subordinate relationship exists. The data is based on allegations of cruelty and maltreatment or other indicators where sexual harassment could be identified.

Notes:

Data is broken down on the left side by fiscal year, then by grouping of allegations, followed by results for each grouping and then by sentence. The columns represent gender and race where available.

Specific sexual assault crimes are listed first followed by Other. Other is used where other crimes not involving sexual assault have been charged, to represent those crimes collectively. Where more than one sexual assault allegation has been made, the number is presented by 'x' and a digit. As an example, 'wrongful sexual contact x2' indicates there were two specifications of wrongful sexual contact preferred.

Results should be read from left to right in conjunction with the grouping of allegations. G represents a finding of guilty. L represents finding of guilty to a lesser included offense. N represents a finding of not guilty. 'Dis' indicates an allegation was dismissed prior to or at trial. 'GN' for the 'other' category indicates the accused was convicted of some of the other allegations and acquitted of some of those allegations.

The sentence row represents the sentences imposed for that grouping of allegations.

11) All records related to the non-judicial or administrative resolution of sexual assault related complaints that did not result in courts-martial in FY2006, FY 2007, FY 2008, FY 2009, and/or FY2010.

Data reflects nonjudicial punishment actions involving sexual assault allegations. AMJAMS does not collect data on administrative actions.
