MICHAEL H. MOBBS
Political Resume

A consultant to OUSD(P) since November 2001. Mr. Mobbs is a member of the Policy Advisory Group, serving as Policy Advisor to the Under Secretary of Defense for Policy, Douglas J. Feith. He is also Director of the Detainee Policy Group, which Mr. Feith requested him to form as OSD's focal point for all matters relating to detainees held by the United States in the Global War on Terrorism.

From January 1982 until December 1985, Mr. Mobbs served as the Secretary of Defense Representative to the Strategic Arms Reduction Talks for Secretary Caspar Weinberger and Assistant Secretary (ISP) Richard Perle (Grade SE5-04).

In December 1985 President Ronald Reagan appointed Mr. Mobbs as Assistant Director (Strategic Programs) of the US Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, following Senate confirmation (Grade PAS EL-IV). In that position Mr. Mobbs was responsible for ballistic missile defense matters, Anti-Ballistic Missile Treaty issues and intermediate-range nuclear force negotiations, as well as strategic arms negotiations with the Soviet Union. He was an early advocate of US withdrawal from the ABM Treaty after discovery in the 1980's of a large Soviet radar built in violation of that Treaty. At ACDA Mr. Mobbs also opposed efforts by the Senate's Democratic leadership to impose on the United States restrictive interpretations of the ABM Treaty that would have reduced US ability to develop ABM defenses.

After returning to the private sector in 1987, Mr. Mobbs assisted with pro bono legal services during the founding of the Center for Security Policy in Washington, DC and served for many years on the Center's Board of Advisors. During the late 1980s, when the proposed Intermediate-Range Nuclear Force (INF) Treaty was under consideration by the Senate, Mr. Mobbs joined Richard Perle, Douglas Feith and other former national security officials in writing a critical, article-by-article analysis of the draft Treaty. Part of the analysis prepared by Mr. Mobbs explained why, under US law, the President has the sole authority to interpret treaties to which the United States is a party, subject only to review by a court. That discussion responded to efforts by Senate Democrats to impose on the President unilateral interpretations of the INF Treaty found in neither its text nor its negotiating record.

An attorney by profession, Mr. Mobbs has had over twenty years of experience in the private law practice concentrating in international commercial transactions and corporate matters. His geographic specialty is Russia and the former Soviet Union. He has had long experience living and working in Russia and Eastern Europe and has served as the managing partner in the Moscow and Budapest offices of several major US law firms. He is fluent in Russian.

Mr. Mobbs is a graduate of Yale University, where he received a BA (summa cum laude) with exceptional distinction in Russian Studies. He holds a JD from the University of Chicago Law School. He has published numerous articles on international legal and security issues.

HIGHLIGHTS:

U.S. Navy military experience: Active duty submarine officer (6+ years), active reserves (8+ years), mobilized in support of Operation Enduring Freedom (2007).

Congressional experience: military and scientific advisor to United States Senator Ken Salazar (3 years). Served as the primary interface for the Senator with DoD and the scientific community regarding defense, space, and science policy matters on behalf the Senator. Provided Senator Salazar with briefings, policy recommendations, and advice on communication strategies for those issue areas. Worked with Congressional staff on both sides of the aisle to promote policy initiatives.

Coalition builder: Created and maintained an informal network of 40+ scientific and engineering professionals throughout the federal legislative and executive branches. Successfully coordinated diverse non-profit and corporate interests for support of a successful federal carbon capture and sequestration legislative proposal. Single handedly built a coalition of mid- and senior-grade Naval officers throughout the Kuwait and Bahrain area of operations to maximize force efficiencies in support of Operation Enduring Freedom. Senate work on satellite export controls resulted in trusted contacts throughout Congress, industry, and numerous Executive Branch agencies.

Science and Engineering professional: Expert at understanding, researching, evaluating and explaining a wide range of scientific and engineering proposals. Strong technical background combines Navy nuclear engineering officer experience with a Ph.D. in Aerospace Engineering.

CIVILIAN EXPERIENCE:

Military and Science Advisor, Office of United States Senator Ken Salazar
AAAS Congressional Fellow (2005)

2005 - 2009

Served as military and scientific advisor to United States Senator Ken Salazar, first as a Congressional Science & Technology Fellow through the American Association for the Advancement of Science and then as Senate staff. Defense legislative portfolio focused on Colorado interests, including the military and commercial space economy, satellite export controls, chemical weapons disposal, United States Northern Command, proposed expansion of army training grounds, High Altitude Aviation Training, mental health treatment for veterans, and funding priorities for Colorado bases.

Senior Analyst, ARINC Engineering Service
Postdoctoral Research Faculty, University of Colorado

2004

Responsible for the investigation of multipath effects on Global Positioning System receivers for aircraft landing systems, analyzing approaches for traditional runways as well as aircraft carriers. Research was funded by ARINC Engineering Services, first through a postdoctoral appointment and then directly as a company employee.

Research Assistant / Ph.D. Candidate, University of Colorado

2000 - 2003

Dissertation Topic: Global Positioning System (GPS) Carrier-Phase Time Transfer. Research included absolute calibration of GPS dual frequency receivers, real world tests of laboratory results, and extensive software analysis and testing of time transfer techniques. Strengths in complex logic and mathematics, including statistical analysis of many variable systems.

MILITARY EXPERIENCE:

Project Officer, Operation Enduring Freedom

2007

Served as Company Commander for 125 sailors mobilized to the Middle East to enforce customs and USDA requirements on returning service members and equipment. Successfully formed, from the ground up, a network of officers throughout the region to maximize efficiencies and communications across 7 separate Navy commands.

Unit Commanding Officer, United States Naval Reserves

2000 - present

As Commanding Officer, responsible for the training and military readiness of 4 separate units (2 year assignments), each ranging in strength from 15 to 45 sailors. Individual units have provided maintenance and manufacturing support to the Pacific submarine fleet, supported a mobile communications cell for emergency military support, provided maintenance support to a submarine tender based in the Mediterranean, and provided pier sentry services to the Atlantic submarine fleet. These duties served concurrently with civilian employment. Current rank: Commander (select).

Senior Instructor, Naval Nuclear Power Training Command

1998 - 2000

As a Submarine Warfare and Engineer qualified officer, responsible for the classroom instruction of hundreds of United States Naval Officers every year in those principles of science and engineering fundamental to the design, construction, operation and maintenance of Naval Nuclear Propulsion Plants.

Submarine Officer, USS San Juan (SSN-751)

1995 - 1998

Gained valuable leadership, managerial, and teamwork building skills as a junior officer on board a fast-attack nuclear submarine. Qualified in Submarine Warfare and as Engineer Officer. Entrusted with the safe and efficient operation of both the ship and the nuclear reactor while supervising watch teams of over 25 sailors.

JUSTO ROBLES III

My experience is rooted on working with communities to conceive and execute solutions through political means. Through my work with labor unions such as the California Teachers Association; community organizations such as National Council of La Raza; and prominent religious and political leaders (both Democrats and Republicans), I have learned that we all share a common interest to better understand how to reconcile and solve the challenges of providing world class education, adequate health care, and a strong national security. My education and experience have honed my capacity to analyze problems, draft arguments, and efficiently present ways to approach situations in different settings. I am fluent in Spanish with a serious interest in learning through and from different communities and cultures.

B.A. in International Relations and Political Science
(Double Major with emphasis: International Law and American Public Policy)
San Francisco State University, San Francisco, CA (2005)

Department of Homeland Security: Correspondence Analyst (Political Appointment) April, 2009 – Present

Coordinate communication between Secretary Napolitano and other government entities. Duties include drafting, editing, and coordinating responses between Departments on behalf of the Secretary. I also assisted the White House Liaison in researching, vetting, and advising the development of the Homeland Security Advisory Committee.

Senator Michael Bennet (D-CO) National Finance Committee: Fundraising Associate March, 2009

Assist the fundraising team to schedule and coordinate call time with Senator Bennet and donors. Maintained the fundraising database of donors. Duties included preparing fundraising briefs for the Senator and maintaining relationships between the campaign and community leaders.

Presidential Inaugural Committee: Political Assistant December, 2008 – January, 2009

Assist the political department in maintaining relations with elected officials and prominent supporters on behalf of the Presidential Inaugural Committee. As Political Assistant I prepared and conducted briefs for principals and coordinated multiple activities.

Obama for America, General Election: Colorado Deputy Political Director June, 2008 – November, 2008

I was given wide latitude to take initiative and entrusted to make important decisions. In my capacity as Deputy Political Director I managed the campaign relationships with elected officials and prominent campaign supporters. Responsibilities included; preparing political briefs, staffing elected officials and prominent state and national leaders, and facilitating surrogate requests from the communications, field, policy and constituency teams. In addition I established effective systems for monitoring the public activities of opponents, coordinated information flow, and prepared reports which contained analysis, internal polling, and recommendations that were timely and useful to the overall campaign.

The Strategy Group / Norma Torres for Assembly, District 61, CA.: Campaign Manager March, 2008 – June, 2008

Managed paid and volunteer staff in a successful primary campaign. Responsibilities included: political outreach, field operations, fundraising coordination, and scheduling. The campaign that I managed resulted in a twenty-point margin of victory, in a field of four candidates. The campaign required managing the staff, the candidate, and her family to assure discipline in message and action.

Obama for America, Primaries: March, 2007 – March, 2008

Regional Political Director: El Paso, TX

Secure endorsements and maintain the relationship between the campaign and elected officials and super-delegates in the El Paso region of Texas. Also staff, brief, and prepare surrogate events in the region.

Director: Nevada Youth Vote

Develop and implement the youth vote and Latino outreach plan for turning out youth voters. This required the identification, training and management of a constantly changing cadre of volunteers.

Latino Outreach: New Mexico

Organize field operations in the Latino and union delegate-heavy southern region of New Mexico.

Deputy Field Director: Chicago

Mobilize and organize support behind Senator Obama by developing a network of volunteers in Chicago to provide local and nationwide support to the campaign. This required, in part, coordination of the Sister City Program that linked Obama supporters in Illinois with those in Iowa. I also coordinated Camp Obama which trained volunteers to be more effective in Chicago and in the four early-primary states. Developed a grassroots network of Latino supporters in Chicago with connections nation-wide to support activities in Latino-dense states.

Office of the Mayor: San Francisco: Assistant to the Liaison to the Asian-American Community and Latino Community 2004 – 2005

My responsibility was to strengthen the connection between the Mayor's Office and the Chinese-American community. This included presentations and meetings with the press, organizations and other political offices in city hall.

Gavin Newsom For Mayor Campaign 2003 – 2004

Managed volunteers and voters in a predominantly Latino district of San Francisco. Organized meetings with leaders of Latino community organizations in order to coordinate the strategy for mobilizing voters. Worked to include minority organizations.

Other Professional Experience

Connecticut Senate Republicans - July 2001-Sept 2003

Legislative Aide to State Senator

As the sole aide and employee of the Senator I professionally organized and managed the Senator's legislative office including coordination of the Senator's law office, legislative and campaign schedules. Acted as Legislative liaison between state agencies and constituents for resolution of constituent inquiries and problems. Coordinate meetings with other legislators, state officials and constituents. Control, track and manage all incoming correspondence to determine importance and action required. Drafted and reviewed for grammar, spelling and personal style all responses to constituent's inquiries and comments. Based on an understanding of the Senator's views I responded to constituent's inquiries and comments both in writing and orally to effectively communicate the Senator's positions. Based on knowledge of the Senator's views I developed concepts for proposed legislation, drafted correspondence to the committees for those concepts and tracked bills and amendments during the legislative session. Provide research to the Senator prior to speeches or meetings as needed. Supervise and coordinate assigned interns.

FedEx Corporation, April 1985 – March 2000Dispatch Management Support Analyst, 1998-2000.

Gathered and analyzed on-road data using interactive maps and used data to work with upper management to improve courier individual performance and develop better on-road efficiency. Maintained communications between dispatch and on-road management to assist in contingency and forward planning. Involved in special projects as assigned working with dispatch and upper management with an emphasis on personal and confidential work. This position was particularly rewarding as I could see the performance improvements using the interactive maps as a tool.

Senior Dispatcher, 1992-1998

Planned, scheduled and executed on-road AM delivery operations. Responsible for the productivity and successful time management of couriers. Working with deadlines responded to variables during the delivery cycle. Provided upper management with feedback on performance for courier reviews and provided upper management with daily, weekly and monthly reports for forward planning. I was picked to train new dispatchers because of my performance on the job and my ability to work well with all people.

Dispatcher, 1989-1992

Planned, scheduled and executed on-road PM pickup operations. Responsible for work distribution, route balancing, time management of couriers and meeting deadlines for on-time airport arrivals. Responsible for on-road productivity which was reflected in my performance reviews. Made recommendations to upper management for improvements and change.

Courier, 1985-1989

Responsible for delivery and pickup of time sensitive packages. Because of my above average performance I was picked as the team captain responsible for route balancing and getting the team to leave the building on time. Was chosen to train new couriers because of my performance and my heavy emphasis on customer service. Awarded a 5 year Incident and Accident Free pin as well as a 5 year Perfect Attendance pin.

Fireman's Fund Insurance Company, 1977-1985.Assistant Supervisor, Word Processing Department

Managed a staff eight; responsible for all aspects of department management, including the efficient flow of workloads, training, checking all work prior to distribution for spelling and grammar and staff performance measurement. PROFESSIONAL HIGHLIGHTS

Office of the Secretary
U.S. Department of Defense
Executive Secretary

The Pentagon
Washington, DC
1997-2000

As the Executive Secretary, I provide direct administrative and personal support to the Secretary of Defense. I manage his professional and social calendar, schedule appointments, draft correspondence, track paperwork, and maintain his files. I directly represent the Secretary as the initial point of contact in his office and strive to reflect his high standards of professionalism and personal excellence. I routinely interact with his counterparts within the administration as well as foreign dignitaries and leaders around the world. As his personal representative, I am cognizant and sensitive of the respective protocols and conventions extended at the Cabinet level. I also provide direct liaison with the White House, Congress, the Joint Staff and theater commanders to ensure that the Secretary is fully prepared for meetings, travel, speeches, press briefings and ceremonial functions. I am the single-point reference source for the Secretary's personal and professional contacts including government and industry leaders and exercise clear and immediate recall of these associates. (b)(6)

Office of Senator William S. Cohen
United States Senate
Personal Assistant

322 Hart Senate Office Building
Washington, DC
1994-1997

I attended to the Senator's day-to-day administrative and secretarial needs including his schedule, travel arrangements and logistics, and personal files. Responsibilities included record keeping, research, writing and editing. In addition to screening his incoming and outgoing correspondence and invitations, I assisted with constituent inquiries, conducted tours, and greeted visitors and meeting attendees. Because of my performance in this office, Senator Cohen invited me to join his personal staff when he was appointed to the President's Cabinet.

Law Office of Chapman, Duff and Paul
Lawyer's Assistant

Washington, DC
1976-1980

Conducted research and monitored legislation of interest to a trade association client. Also drafted correspondence and billing vouchers in addition to making travel arrangements for attorneys and appointments with clients.

Office of the General Counsel
U.S. Federal Energy Regulatory Commission
Office Assistant

Headquarters
Washington, DC
1971-1976

Assisted lawyers in researching, drafting, and typing Commission actions in the areas of corporate interlocking directorates, corporate finance, EEO adverse action appeal procedures, and Privacy and Freedom of Information Acts.
