ARGENTINA

PRESIDENT HOSPITALIZED.

DECLASSIFIED IN FULL
Authority: EO 13526
Chief, Records & Declass Div, WHS
Date: JAN 19 2018

~~(C/NOFORN)~~ Mrs. Peron's sudden hospitalization on 3 November, reportedly because of an acute gall bladder problem, could return her constitutional successor, Senator Luder, to the presidency.

~~(C/NOFORN)~~ The President's illness, which has also been reported as a nervous attack, comes only three weeks after returning from a month's sick leave. The Argentine leader is facing impeachment threats by opposition members of congress over her alleged diversion of public welfare funds to a private bank account. Some of her close advisers, including the exiled former Social Welfare Minister Lopez Rega, are also suspected of corruption. One of her close associates was forced to resign on 31 October because of such charges.

~~(C/NOFORN)~~ Mrs. Peron's naming last week of Anibal Demarco, a follower of Lopez Rega, as Social Welfare Minister aroused fears that the residual influence of the former official is still strong. In making the appointment, the President chose to ignore overwhelming sentiment against placing him in the post. Opponents to Demarco's selection included the Cabinet's top figure, Interior Minister Robledo, who had promised the military prior to Mrs. Peron's resumption of the presidency on 16 October that he would keep her in line. The appointment will undoubtedly harden opposition in and out of the government and will lessen Robledo's credibility with the military.

~~(C/NOFORN)~~ Although press reports describe Mrs. Peron's condition as being not serious, one medical source says that surgery may be required, which would incapacitate her for about a month. In all likelihood, whether or not her deteriorating condition is from a malfunctioning gall bladder or nerves, the President's opposition -- including the military -- will use this latest setback in her health as a means to press her into an indefinite leave of absence or resignation. Despite increasing talk of a military coup, the armed forces would probably be content for now with Luder's return. (SBB 31 Dec 81)
